

Students from Biello Aragón Institute visit the Ercros factory in Sabiñánigo

The Ercros factory in Sabiñánigo continues its educational work and along with the new academic year the plant has started the visits of students from schools and universities. On Friday, October 30, received 30 students and three teachers from the Administration and Finance Intermediate Degree of the Biello Aragón Institute located in the same town.

The visit began with a talk by technical staff of the factory where students learned about the company, its manufacturing centers, productive activities and their production processes. Afterwards, the students visited the plants of potash chlorine and sodium chlorate.

The event was highly valued by both teachers and students, who could see first-hand the operation of an industrial plant in their own town. The teachers from Biello Aragón Institute hope to repeat the experience with other students.
