

Ercros certifies its artificial intelligence management system

Ercros has obtained ISO 42001:2023 certification, the first specific international standard for artificial intelligence (AI) management systems, after successfully passing the audit carried out by Applus+.

This certification certifies that Ercros has an artificial intelligence management system, which provides a complete framework to develop, implement and manage AI systems in a responsible, reliable and transparent manner. The standard offers a systematic and recognized approach to managing the risks and opportunities associated with the use of AI, defining specific controls and guidance for its application.

With this recognition, Ercros demonstrates its commitment to a safe and responsible use of AI, offering transparency and security to all its stakeholders, and reinforcing its governance, control and supervision model of the use of these technologies in its internal processes.

For more information about Ercros certifications click here.

Barcelona, February 6, 2026