Students from IES Biello Aragón during their visit to the Ercros factory

A group of 10th-grade students from IES Biello Aragón, accompanied by two teachers, visited the Ercros factory in Sabiñánigo.

During the visit, technicians from the school gave an explanation about the company, its organization, and the activities carried out at the factory. Afterward, the students toured the facilities, including the hydrogen peroxide plant and the general analysis laboratory.

In the laboratory, the students were able to conduct simple experiments, gaining practical experience with the concepts they study in the classroom.

Both the students and the teachers gave the visit a positive review and highlighted the value of learning firsthand about industrial activity and its practical applications.
